

Kicking Back Cabin

The Kicking Back Cabin (KBC) in the Big South Fork is a jewel that exceeded my expectations. My husband, Terry and sons, Blake and Grant, and I spent a special weekend at KBC. The comfortable and luxurious cabin is nestled in Spruce Creek Acres – an equestrian styled community with marvelous well groomed trails (many of which lead directly into the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area), beautiful homes with acreage and pasture, and a common pavilion area for the friendly homeowners to enjoy.

Owners, Kathy and Shawn Larsen, love to entertain and enjoy the trails. They have taken their passion and created a perfect home away from home in their log cabin filled with many special touches. Walking into the KBC surpassed all of my expectations. I was amazed by the special touches and beautifully appointed rooms throughout the home. For example, the master bedroom had comfy terry robes for Terry and I, plus Bath and Body Works shower and bath gel for the romantic Jacuzzi. There were the wonderful heavenly beds with high thread count sheets and divine comforters and blankets. Fresh flowers adorned the house - something that I find very delightful. Each bedroom was decorated very tastefully with beautiful dressers, large closets, and flat screen TV's with DirecTV hookup should you wish to watch your favorite sports team or favorite show. KBC also has WI-FI, so I could set up my computer and check e-mail. I also had a cell phone signal, so I could check my Blackberry, too!

I love to cook and entertain. The kitchen at KBC is amazing with well stocked cabinets - a feature that kept me from having to run into town for supplies. Spices, Tupperware, utensils, condiments in the refrigerator, candles, tablecloths - it was all there. There were even perfectly rolled newspaper tubes to start the fire out back. The backyard was set up for relaxing. There is a barn with 5 stalls, a fire pit, horseshoes, three hammocks and a superb huge barbecue grill. The back deck held the hot tub (also accessible from the master bedroom) where we spent some time relaxing and listening to music from the backyard entertainment system. KBC is also wonderfully landscaped. You could escape to any number of places in the house to sit and read a book, such as the large front porch swing, comfortable oversized leather coaches in the living room, and out back in the great lawn furniture. We walked around KBC and were delighted with the equestrian friendly community which offered plenty of road to walk and admire the beautiful homes, horses, and ranches - from the beautiful gray maned stud named Buddy at Cross Creek Stables to Pam and Gary Delk's wonderful Spruce Creek Stables and Campground. Everyone is there to share their love of horses, live, work, and play in this beautiful, inviting equestrian community. Kicking Back Cabin is truly a one-of-a-kind cabin, perfect for a family retreat, girlfriend's or romantic getaway, or week long vacation in the Big South Fork. It is ideally situated in the Big South Fork and minutes from Jamestown, Oneida, Big South Fork National River & Recreation Area, and Pickett State Park. Just like their motto says: "The Big South Fork provides you with a great place to play and Kicking Back Cabin will provide you with a great place to stay!
